GOVERNOR WILLIAMS.

Details of the Last Sickness of Indiana's Home-spun Governor.

His Death Peaceful and Quiet, Like the Sinking of the Sun.

The Sage of Wheatland Passes from Earth to Death's Embrace.

The Man who will Succeed Him—Details of His Funeral.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 22.—Governor James D. Williams, whose death was chronicled on Saturday, was taken sick on the day of the presidential election, November 2, and since retiring that night has not left his room. He occupied quarters in the old James M. Rye house, on North Meridian street, Indianapolis, the headquarters of the Washington club, where also resided several of his grand-children, names McCoy, whom he was educating in that city. During his illness he was attended by Dr. R. N. Todd, John Harman, nurse; Mrs. Callopy, wife of the janitor of the building, and Judge Scott, of the supreme court, who have been constantly present with him. When first attacked it was thought he would be confined to his bed for a few weeks, a month maybe, that having been the usual length of his sickness from this trouble, which has been present with him at intervals for the past fifteen years. Nothing different was thought until last Tuesday, when the symptoms became decidedly unfavorable, and the physician doubted his recovery. He grew worse from that time, with occasional temporary rallies until Friday night, when for the first time, he felt convinced that death was at hand. He gradually sank until 12:30 o'clock, when he peacefully passed away. At that time his son, John Williams, of Wheatland, who arrived Friday night, Judge Scott and Mrs. Callopy, were in the room, the nurse having gone out a few minutes before the supreme moment arrived. The death is said to have been peaceful and quiet, like the gradual sinking of the sun, the expiring of a worn out body.

The governor, of a large family, has but two children surviving—John, a farmer, of Knox county, and Mrs. Eliza Dunn, a widow, daughter, who made her home with him at the old homestead, near Wheatland. She was unable to respond to a telegram calling her to Indianapolis, by sickness. There are numerous grandchildren, nearly twenty. Two of three of them are attending Purdue university, and have been summoned by telegram since the death of his wife, which occurred several months ago, in consequence of injuries received by a fall, Governor Williams has not been the same man; his associates have noticed a great change in his manner, but never a word of complaint or repining from his lips. At the old home, a room was always kept for this use, fitted up with a broad fire place and the furniture of which he had been accustomed to in early life. At a window here his wife always sat to welcome him on his return home, and since her death he has not cared to return to the scene of his loss. He went occasionally, but it was always a trial. Recently, his daughter missed him from his accustomed place, and after a long search he was found in the barn, his grief welling up in great sobs that shook his frame. When disease brought its insidious forces to bear against him, they found opposed to them no longer the sturdy will and hardy constitution, but an indifferent, if not willing, victim, ready to join his beloved in the land of the unknown.

A visit to the Washington club rooms yesterday afternoon found a portion of the committee on decoration, headed by Chairman Peedleton, busily engaged in draping the lower parlors with somber black, relieved here and there with wreaths of evergreen and flowers artistically arranged, producing a beautiful effect. In the center of the double parlors is placed the catafalque upon which rests the casket containing the remains of the late governor. Hanging from the wall immediately at the head of the casket is a large oil portrait of the deceased, draped with black and floral designs. The casket is metallic, furnished with heavy silver trimmings and a glass top for the entire length, exposing to view the whole body. A plain silver plate on the cover bears the inscription: "James D. Williams, governor of Indiana. Born January 16, 1808. Died November 20, 1880." The embalming of the remains has been well done, and the facial features in death are remarkably life-like. At the court house it is proposed to place the catafalque, upon which the casket will rest, in the main corridor directly opposite the southern entrance.

A low railing will extend to the stairway in either direction, while the blank space between the platform and the stairways will be relieved by tropical plants and vines.

The doors of the offices opening into the lower hallway will be draped in mourning, relieved with bunting and battle flags. The balustrades of the upper corridors will also be tastefully draped in black. The decorations were being prepared yesterday and last evening, and were put up early this morning. The flags sent by United States Quartermaster Ekin arrived last night from Louisville, and will be used in decorating the Court House to day. Those who visit the Court House to pay their respects to the distinguished dead will enter on the east side, and after viewing the remains will pass out at the west door. A detachment of the Light Infantry will stand guard at the doorways.

The remains of Governor Williams were taken from the Washington club rooms at half-past 11 o'clock to the court house, where they will lie in state until 5 o'clock this afternoon. The procession was composed of a platoon of police, adjutant-general and quartermaster-general, with their respective aids, band light, infantry, Jefferson club, citizens on foot, special guard of eight policemen, hearses and pall-bearers, relatives, Governor Gray, state officials and citizens in carriages.

General Miles on His Way to Washington.

ST. PAUL, MINN., Nov. 22.—General Miles, who is now en route for Washington, has reached Bismarck with his family. While he is non-committal as to the nature of his call, he admits that the signal service is a fine field for work, as it is in his infancy.

His friends in the West are satisfied that he will be the future head of the signal service. The general says the Sioux question is practically settled except as to Sitting Bull, which he regards as a question of diplomacy. Later information that the general has of Sitting Bull locates him within half a mile north of the boundary line, with about 200 fighting men. At Keogh, there were 2,000 hostile Indians, who have surrendered to Miles, who, in the meantime, has compelled them to turn over 400 acres, and prepare for a crop next season sufficient to support them for the year.

A Mysterious Murder.

PRITTSBURG, Nov. 22.—Philip Bati, a steamboat engineer, was found dead yesterday morning, at the foot of a flight of stairs belonging to a house on Second avenue, in an insensible condition, with a severe wound on his head. He died yesterday morning without having regained consciousness. The affair is enshrouded in mystery, and whether he fell accidentally or had been foully dealt with is not known. A post mortem was held to-day, at which the doctors decided that the wound on the head had resulted from a blow by some heavy instrument, and not by a fall. Five parties have been arrested on suspicion, and will be held to await investigation.

Feet Frozen.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Nov. 22.—Nine men, out of a corps engaged in putting up a new telegraph line along the L. N. & C. railroad through here, had their feet badly frozen yesterday and the day before. It is thought the flesh will slough off of some of them.

Died of Blood Poison.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—Dr. Thomas Wood, a prominent surgeon of this city, died yesterday from the effects of blood poisoning, caused by attending with chapped hands to the wounded in a railroad accident on the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton railroad.

Turkish Trouble.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20.—The troops under Drusich Pasha at various points near Dulcigno, are surrounded by the Albanians. The Albanian league had informed the Turkish authorities that it will forcibly oppose any attempt to execute the decree calling out the redifis for service. The Austrian consulate at Prizrend has been pillaged by a mob.

His Farewell Sermon.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—Archbishop Feehan delivered his farewell sermon here yesterday, preparatory to going to Chicago about the middle of this week.

Made an Honorary.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—General Grant has been made an honorary member of the Middlesex club.

Body Recovered.

GALVESTON, Nov. 22.—The News-Fort Worth special says the body of General J. J. Byrnes, recently killed by Indians near Fort Quitman, was brought in to-day.

Disastrous Fire in New York—Street Railway Accident.

General and Various Items of Interest From England.

Fire in New York—Another Accident.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The building at Bowery and Hester streets, occupied by the London and Liverpool clothing company, burned; loss, $50,000. The wall on the southern side fell on the roof of No. 86 Bowery, a double two-story building occupied by Kerronan & Walsh, as a shoe store, and also by a shirt manufactory. The contents of these stores were destroyed. The water and fire stopped travel on the Third avenue elevated railroad.

Horses attached to a large beer wagon ran away this morning and dashed the wagon against the cross town car of the Canal street line entirely wrecking it and throwing it from the track. Four men and three women were in the car, and two of the former and two of the latter were severely injured. The name of one only was learned, Betsy Winfield, of 194 Henry street. The driver of the wagon has been arrested.

Conservation of an Episcopal Bishop.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 22.—The first consecration of an Episcopal bishop in St. Louis, and the third west of the Mississippi, took place yesterday at Christ church. The new bishop is Rev. G. K. Dunlap, for some years in charge of Grace church at Kirkwood, Mo. He will reside at Santa Fe, his diocese including Arizona and New Mexico. Bishop Whipple, of Minnesota, conducted the ceremony. The bishop elect was presented by Bishop Robertson, of Missouri, and Bishop Clarkson, of Nebraska, and Bishop Spaulding, of Colorado, preached the ordination sermon. Bishops Burgess, of Quincy, Perry of Iowa, and Seymour, of Springfield, Id., participated in the service. In the evening a missionary mass meeting was held at St. George's and addresses were made by Bishops Whipple and Spaulding.

Interesting Irish News.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—Forester, chief secretary, has gone to Ireland, but will return to attend the cabinet council on Thursday, and the reports that he may bring will go far to decide the course of the government.

J. B. Turrier & Co., woolen manufacturers of Huddersfield, have failed. Their liabilities are estimated at $200,000.

Field marshal general, Sir Charles Yorke, constable of Tower, died yesterday, aged ninety. He served with distinction in Peninsula and at Waterloo.

At a land league meeting at Tipperary Sunday, Boylen, one of the indicted agitators delivered an inflammatory speech. The hitherto quiet county of Kildair is now under domination of agitation.

Laycock Challenges Hanlan.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Laycock, in a challenge to Hanlan, says he must soon return to Sydney, and therefore hopes Hanlan will afford him an opportunity to ascertain who is the best sculler in the world. Laycock desires to row on the Thames course for the championship of the world, the Sportsmans challenge cup and £200 a side, and has deposited £50 for the match. Laycock also says he has heard Ross is dissatisfied with his defeat in the international regatta, and states that he will row a match with Ross on the Thames, any day the present week, for £100 or £200 a side.

Winter Sets In.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—Winter has set in severely. The whole country is covered with snow.

Many land meetings were held Sunday throughout the country, but the attendance was smaller than usual, on account of the frost. The parish priests took an active part in the meetings.

It is reported that Boycott intends residing at Naasfaas, County Kilkair.

Garfield Will go to Washington Soon.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Chairman Jewell, of the national republican committee, and John I. Davenport spent the major part of yesterday at General Garfield's home in Mentor, came here last night and left for the east this afternoon. General Garfield leaves home to-morrow or Tuesday for Washington, to be gone a week or ten days.

Prospective Boat Race at Washington.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Judge Borden Presiding.

MONDAY, Nov. 22.

The court assembled at 1:30 P. M., when the Snurr murder case was again taken up.

Mr. J. Q. Stratton, for the defense, addressed the jury, and had spoken only a little over half an hour when one of the jurymen was taken violently ill, necessitating a postponement of the continuation of the speech.

The jurymen was Jacob Bolinger, of Lafayette township, and the malady that seized him was cramp colic. He was conducted from the court, and placed under the care of Dr. Anderson.

At half past 2 o'clock, Mr. Bolinger having shown no symptoms of recovery, the court adjourned for half-an-hour, with the probability that, at the expiration of that time a further adjournment, till to-morrow morning, would be found necessary.

Judge Borden announced that, if the jurymen should not have recovered by to-morrow morning, the prosecuting attorney's matter should be taken up.

Life is short at most and our duty is to prolong it. Use, therefore, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Hoarseness, etc. Sold everywhere. Price only 25 cents.

Home Again.

CORR, Nov. 22.—Michael Davitt has returned from a tour in the United States. He brings a tender of the freedom of the city made by the municipality of Chicago to Parrell.

The Official Vote of Minnesota.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 22.—The official canvass of the complete vote of the state gives Garfield 93,903; Hancock, 53,316; Garfield's majority, 40,587. Duane's plurality, 8,627; Strait's majority, 5,639; Washburn's, 12,624. These are republican majorities.

THE DAILY SENTINEL is two cents a copy, ten cents a week, forty cents a month, $1.50 a year—either by carrier or mail.

THE WEEKLY SENTINEL is 5 cents a copy, fifty cents per six months, $1.00 a year; in clubs of ten or more, ninety cents a copy one year, and a free copy to the getter up of the club—cash in advance.

ADVERTISEMENTS: In the daily or weekly six cents a line (several words each insertion in local columns. No charge less than twenty-five cents. Amusements, "meetings," "lectures" and special notices on the first page in large type, ten cents a line. Nothing less than fifty cents. Announcements of "weddings," "lost," "found," marriages and deaths, twenty-five cents.

Checks and money orders to be made payable to E. A. K. HACKETT.

The average circulation of THE DAILY SENTINEL, exceeding that of any paper in the state, outside of Indianapolis, shows how completely it maintains its superiority as the most effective and economical advertising medium in the west. Not only in the number of papers sold, but in the character of its audience, it stands higher than any other journal in the state published outside of Indianapolis. THE SENTINEL is read by the most intelligent and prosperous class of people in Northern Indiana.

The Daily Sentinel

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 22.

BY E. A. K. HACKETT.

AS THE champion wheat state, Ohio takes the cake.

GENERAL POPE is named for General Scofield's position at West Point.

A SUSPENSION of nine days will be had in the production of coal in December.

NEW YORK's new mayor, William R. Grace, took the oath of office on Saturday.

THE New Hampshire senate promises to be one of integrity this winter. There is not a lawyer in it.

SPEAKING of the United States senatorship in this state, the Elkhart Democrat says: There is a vast number of smaller satellites flying around them [meaning Johnnie New and Ben Harrison,] and it is by no means certain that either of them will secure this coveted position.

THE Terre Haute Express says it "is not true that the democracy are trying to form an alliance with the temperance people of Indiana for political purposes." No doubt the Express has its information from an authentic source, but then what does it signify? Simply this: If any alliance at all was contemplated it would most certainly be between the two factions named above.

THE objects of the Irish land league have been given various shades of significance, but perhaps no more aggressive one has been given than by Thomas P. O'Connor, M. P., at a speech in Galway. He says: "when the objects of the land league shall have been attained, the Irish people will have a more noble cause in view, to wrench themselves from the rule of England."

LOGANSFORD is certainly to be pitied. The recent tax levy in that city was made on a basis of $2.30 upon each one hundred dollars, a sum startling enough to be sure to warn off all capitalists who ever had intentions of locating there. The causes leading to such an extortionate levy are said to be the extravagance of the last two councils.

THE Sunday Mail of yesterday says:

"Thanksgiving day was first observed in this country during President Lincoln's administration, and there is every indication that it is an established day."

The Mail must be a little too previous. Thanksgiving day was an event in Europe as far back as 1575, and was in that year observed in October. There is on record official appointment of Thanksgiving days in Massachusetts in 1633, 1637, 1638 and 1639. It remained for President Lincoln to fix the day as the last Thursday in November.

THE war of races is much more bitter in the eastern empire than is supposed to be in this. As announced in THE SENTINEL recently that he would, on Saturday Herr Hasel interpellated the Prussian diet upon the present movement against the Jews. He denounced the revival of the race, the hatred, and pointed out the inconsistency of such a movement in a country where the government had taken diplomatic action in favor of a removal of the disabilities of Jews in the Balkan principalities. Count Von Stobber Werlinggerode, minister of state, replied. He said the government had not received a petition in favor of a partial removal of the disabilities referred to by Herr Hasel but he had no hesitation in declaring that the existing laws established religious equality and that the government had no intention of proposing a modification thereof. This settled it.

OBITUARIES POSITONED.

With each succeeding defeat of the democratic party for the past twenty years over sanguine republicans have predicted its funeral. Now even so orthodox a republican as Robert G. Ingersoll says the democratic party never will enter another national campaign. Perhaps the time when this sort of prediction seemed most likely to be verified was just after the presidential election of 1872, when Horace Greeley was hurried to his grave beneath the weight of one of the most crushing defeats ever administered in the history of party politics.

But did the democratic party die then? If ever it was in course of preparation for burial, it certainly was in 1872. What happened? The history is too recent to need to be repeated. Even the most ardent republican must perforce testify to the wonderful energy, the indomitable pluck which infused new life into the old organization, as well as to the sublimity of discipline which proved equal to every emergency, until in 1876 the re-energized, re-invigorated and enthusiastic democracy carried the country by a large popular majority, and elected their president. That the machinery which enables unscrupulous partisans to control in the event of a closely contested election was in the hands of the republicans, and was unsparingly and remorselessly used to that end, in no wise alters the fact that victory was won from defeat, and the historian will do justice both to those who so grandly won and to those who so dishonestly set aside the verdict of the people.

Well, if it was a funeral in 1872, it certainly was a wonderful resurrection in 1876. But it was not a funeral. True, there was a season of something very nearly resembling suspended animation; but the life-giving principle was there all the time, and so long as that principle fails to be recognized as triumphant everywhere, just so long will the grand old democratic party be found every four years battling like a giant for the cause of the people.

This, then, is the secret of the wonderful tenacity of democratic life. It is not as has been said, "the cohesive power of public plunder; were that the main spring, it would have been broken long ago. It is the principle of a government of the people, for the people and by the people—the grand doctrine of the constitution, that of local self-government within constitutionally prescribed bounds, as against the republican tendency to a strong government, an oligarchy of wealth and aggrandizement in the interest of the few as against the many—it is that principle which it has always so warmly cherished, which entitles the democratic party to the motto, "esto perpetua."

So there will be no disbandment and no death of the democracy. The party animated by such principles never cries enough. Through defeat after defeat it has struggled on, coming up smiling at each successive round, and it will continue to struggle for the popular rights until it wins them. The strong government will not give the protection it promises; the strong arm shall weaken in the exercise; the splendor and glitter shall tarnish in the using, and the fabric of pride, and wealth and aristocracy shall ultimately fall to pieces of its own weight. Then, if not before, will the democratic party be the shield bearer of the nation's safety, the preserver of the rights of men, the bulwark of a free national constitution. In the mean time our republican friends may as well postpone their obituaries.

CURRENT OPINION.

Sound Advice.
Huntington Democrat.
The democracy of Huntington county are more firmly connected to gether now than at any time in many years past. They polled a larger vote at the late elections than ever before. So it is also with the democracy of the state. Keep in line, is the word.

A Lively Corps.
Elkhart Democrat.
In four years from now the republicans will find the democratic party to be the liveliest corps they ever saw, notwithstanding their strenuous effort just at present to make the people believe it has drawn its last breath. Such defeat as it just met with will have no more effect on the party as an organization, than a gnat would have upon an elephant were it to light upon his tail.

THE day is not far distant when every city in the land containing one or more daily newspapers will have its press club. When the day arrives, and such an organization has been formed in Fort Wayne, the measure of good to be accomplished cannot be estimated. In Kansas city the poor of the city are to be provided with a Thanksgiving dinner by the local press club, and many similar acts of charity are constantly being brought to light.

GOVERNOR J. D. WILLIAMS.

The telegraph of Saturday brings the sad, although not unexpected intelligence of the death of Governor James D. Williams, chief executive of this state. THE SENTINEL of Saturday contained a hurriedly prepared sketch of his life, and to-day presents a more detailed account of the life of a man whose almost whole existence was spent among us.

James Douglas Williams was born in Pickaway county, Ohio, January 16, 1808. His parents were of Scotch-Irish blood on one side and Welsh-English on the other, a combination which accounted for the marked physical strength and mental qualities of the man. His ancestors came to this country about the middle of the eighteenth century, and engaged in agriculture. George Williams, the father of the late governor, settled in Ohio in an early day in the history of that state, and thence he removed to this state, locating in Knox county, where the home of the governor has always been. Young Williams enjoyed but meagre facilities for education and social training, so that he grew up to be the plain, blunt, honest, hard-headed, hard-bated farmer, and as such maintained himself in whatever position he has occupied. The father of Governor Williams died in 1833, leaving a family of six children, James being the oldest, upon him devolved the larger share of the care for the family, which burden he bore until 1831, when he was married to Miss Nancy Hoffman, the daughter of a neighboring farmer. Purchasing a quarter section of wild land, the young couple began a life which continued uninterrupted until a few months since, when Mrs. Williams died, after a protracted illness. In the course of his long life as a farmer Governor Williams had succeeded in putting under cultivation a farm of over 2,000 acres, which is now one of the best pieces of farm property in southern Indiana.

The public career of Governor Williams has been a long one, and with the exception of his term of congress, has been exclusively identified with state affairs. In 1839 he was elected to the office of justice of the peace by his neighbors. In 1843 he was first elected to the state legislature, and he has served seven years in the house and twelve years a member of the senate. In 1855 he was elected a member of the state board of agriculture, being a member for sixteen years, and for four years served as president, which position he filled with great acceptability. In 1874 he was elected a representative in congress from the second congressional district, to succeed Hon. William E. Niblack, and before his term expired was nominated by the democratic party as its candidate for governor, a compromise between Franklin Lunders and W. S. Holman, between whom the convention was nearly evenly divided. The contest between Mr. Williams and General Harrison resulted in the election of Governor Williams by a plurality of over five thousand votes, and in January, 1877, he was inaugurated in the Grand Opera house. Governor Williams was also the caucus nominee of his party to succeed Senator Morton, in the extra session of the legislature in December, 1872. The last public appearance of Governor Williams was just three weeks ago Saturday evening, when he made an address at the dedication of the new dining hall of the house of refuge at Plainfield. He then appeared to be in his usual health.

Governor Williams was strangely a man of the people, one who possessed a fund of good humor, which enabled him to take with out anger the many jokes and sallies hurled at his country figure and his homely manners. His tall, ungainly figure was well known everywhere, and will be regretfully missed from private life and from the councils of the state by men of all parties, who respected the rugged honesty and simple virtues of the man. He was one of the pioneers of the state, who broke the ground and felled the woods for the advance of a civilization that did not forget to honor him, and which he repaid by faithful and unselfish service.

The Hoosier governor of the Hoosier state has passed away leaving behind him many, ah many, foot prints upon the sands of his time. In life he was beloved and honored, in death he will be revered and his life be placed among the archives of noble, honest, men.

morrow night.

Amity lodge social and hop at their hall, Clinton street, Thanksgiving evening.

Trinity Church choir are making preparations for extra music on Thanksgiving.

The original Joshua Whitcomb will be presented to-morrow evening, at the Grand opera house.

Seven degrees below zero in the shade, this morning. The thermometer on Saturday morning registered seventeen degrees below zero.

To-morrow morning, in the superior court, counsel in the matter of Staple-ford vs. Eckert will argue the case, which will probably go to the jury at noon.

Signor Fedeli, the scenic artist, has nearly completed the scenery for the "Widow Glass" opera. It will be the finest piece of work ever seen on the Fort Wayne stage.

There are nineteen prisoners in the county jail. This is a small number for the time of year. There have been as many as seventy-six prisoners confined at one time.

The Chautauqua literary and scientific society will meet on next Friday evening, at 132 West Jefferson street. Members and intending members will please be on hand.

Matrimonial permits have been granted to Simon Shoop and Bella Loucks, William E. Reynolds and Mary Fry, John D. Hill and Carry B.
Donaldson. The two last named are each nineteen years of age.

Miss Ella Dodge, who graduated from the Central grammar school last spring, is now assisting Mr. John Shoaf, the Berry street artist. Miss Dodge developed considerable skill as an artist while in the schools.

Rev. Dr. Stone preached an eloquent, able and deeply interesting sermon
last evening, at the First Baptist church, upon the subject of individual responsibility to God, taking as his text Romans xiv: 11-12.

The members and friends of the City hospital association are requested to attend the annual election of officers this (Monday) evening Nov. 22, 1880, at eight o'clock, and not Tuesday evening as stated in the Gazette.

The following entry was made today on the circuit court docket: E.
Crofton Fox, Charles Fox and Smith
W. Osterhauf vs. George Jacoby and Sebastian Wiegand, action on note;
claim $23.25; J. R. Bittenger, plain-tiff's attorney; case set for Dec. 3.

Mrs. Molly Bryant, an old and respected citizen, and a valued member of the First Baptist church, passed away on Saturday evening, at about half past 5 o'clock. Her remains were interred this afternoon. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr.
Stone, at the church, between 2 and 3 o'clock, in the presence of a large number of sorrowing friends.

Prof. Addis Albro, of the Methodist Episcopal college, has resigned his position. The resignation has not yet been accepted, and all those who have the welfare of the college at heart, will unite in hoping that steps will be taken to induce the professor to reconsider his determination of severing his connection with the institution. The cause of the resignation is a call to a more lucrative position elsewhere.

Hon. James H. Rice, of Indianapolis, and Hon. John E. Lamb, of Terre Haute, two of the most prominent democratic politicians in the State, were in town over Sabbath, the guests of Hon. R. C. Bell. Mr. Rice was secretary of the State Democratic Committee during the canvass we have just passed through, and we state it knowingly and sincerely that if the chairman of the committee had been possessed of one-half the executive ability of Mr. Rice, we would have carried the State by ten thousand and majority.

The Gazette is badly off its base. It announces that the organ factory boys will hold their ball on November 24, instead of the 25th, as generally understood. It also states that the election of officers of the Fort Wayne hospital will take place "on Thursday evening, November 23, 1880." There is no such date. November 23 occurs on Thursday this year. Furthermore, the election referred to is not to be held on Thursday evening,
nor on the 23d, but on this (Monday)
evening, the 22d inst.

THE RAILROADS.

Local, General and Personal Notes
D. B. Strope, engine dispatcher,
Pittsburg road, is full of business.

Fireman George May, of the Grand Rapids & Indiana, is on passenger.

Business on the Wabash and Canada Southern, is ever on the increase.

Engine 111, Grand Rapids & Indiana, will be ready for duty in a few days.

Engineer Lamar, of engine No. 173, Pittsburg road, has been transferred to No. 208.

Work is progressing rapidly on the Celina, Van Wert & State Line (narrow gauge) railway.

Kirby Jackson, manipulator of engine No. 105, Pittsburg, Fort Wayne &
Chicago, is on the sick list.

Jim Moynan has assumed control of the Pittsburg round house, during the illness of Foreman Buckwalter.

Joe Carmany, late engineer on the Pittsburg, has received a situation on the Wabash, at Springfield, Ill.

Ninety-six per cent. of the Canada Southern road is air-line, and the highest grade is only 15 feet to the mile.

Engines 154 and 129, Pittsburg
road, came out of the shop, Saturday,
supplied with the improved automatic air brake.

The lines of the American Union Telegraph company, are being put up along the Pittsburg as fast as the weather will permit.

There is considerable sickness
among the employees of the Pittsburg road. Pat McCarty, driver of engine
No. 136, and fireman Connors, of engine 188, are on the sick list.

Mary Gilbert, widow of the engineer killed in the memorable collision
at Jackson, Mich., last year, has sued
the Michigan Central road for $10,- 000, and has been tendered $3,000 as a compromise.

Bryan Press: The Butler & Detroit Railroad runs through a swamp
on the farm of John Shaffer, in Superior township, which is likely to give some trouble. The road bed is slowly sinking. Twenty men are at work wheeling in earth.

Portland Sun: The narrow gauge between Mercer and Celina, in Mercer county, is to be completed this week.
Our friend W. J. Craig, of Bluffton, has the contract of building the part of the road, and has pushed the work with the vim of an old road runner.

Dr. J. T. Woods, chief surgeon of the Wabash, has returned from a trip
over the entire road and branches.
The object of the trip was to appoint a number of local surgeons on the new line. Eleven were selected, making in all about thirty who are now in the employ of this road. These surgeons are under the immediate direction of Surgeon Woods and all reports are made directly to him. Dr.
J. S. Gregg is the Fort Wayne surgeon.

AMUSEMENTS.

"JOSHUA WHITCOMB."

To-morrow evening the great event in this city will be the appearance of the famous and successful comedian, Den. Thompson, supported by a first-class company, in the highly amusing Yankee comedy of "Joshua Whitcomb." This performance has had longer runs in New York, Chicago and San Francisco than any other play now before the American people.
The New York Graphic has this to say
of a late performance given by Den.
and his troupe:

"The 'Uncle Josh' of Mr. Thompson will rank with the most lauded personations of the day. The impression left by the principal performer
(Mr. Thompson) is one of unalloyed satisfaction. No person in a similar line of endeavor possesses such naturalness, such fidelity, such ingrained character as this. His humor is entirely unconscious, and his pathos irresistible. The treatment of the actor is one of apparent simplicity, and his words and actions are produced with a spontaneous counterfeit of an actual personage that defies analysis and disarms criticism. His art is high art, however lowly and home spun the theme,
and we have no hesitation in pronouncing his 'Uncle Josh' a rare comedian, and himself entitled to all the honors that can attend an eminent comedian, made so by inborn merit,
and not by extraneous artifices."

"THE WIDOW GLASS."
Prof. J. A. Butterfield's new American opera of the above title is to be presented in this city for the first time, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 7.
The opera is now being daily rehearsed, and the performers are rapidly becoming proficient in their respective parts. The following is the cast of characters:

Widow Sarah Glass, contralto, a boarding-house keeper—Mrs. Dr.
Brewer, of Chicago.

Miss Irene Latimer, soprano, the orphan heiress—Mrs. Emma De Vere.

Miss June Denny, mezzo soprano,
Miss Latimer's friend—Miss Jennie
F. Welch, of Newcastle, Ind.

Lieutenant Harvey Ralston, tenor,
of the artillery—Mr. Jacobs.

Senator Comepinsky, tenor, a western senator, and uncle to Irene—
Mr. J. F. Kinsey.

Mr. Hampton Jonesby, baritone, a Boston gentleman—Mr. V. O. Smyser, of Chicago.

Captain Sam Brass, bass, a retired whaler—Mr. W. J. Stabler, of Newcastle, Ind.

Davy Jones, bass, a sea-phantom—
Mr. S. R. Taylor.

STAGE WHISPERS.
The Emma Abbott opera troupe has met with much success in the south.

Miss Clara Poole, the Boston
contralto, has joined the Remenyi company.

The Schultz orchestra have been engaged for the "Fairy Grotto" Dec.
17 and 18.

Kate Claxton has met with a great deal of favor in New York in the pretty drama, "The Snow Power."

Mr. N. O. Smyser, of Chicago, is in the city to take the part of Hampton Jonesby in the "Widow Glass" opera.

Prof. Leslie has decided to give the juvenile operetta, "Fairy Grotto,"
on December 17 and 18, at the Grand Opera house.

Miss Fanny Mountcastle, of Detroit, has left John Dillon's company, and has gone to New Orleans to join the Ada Gage combination.

Joe Emmett tells a Cleveland newspaper man that he played to $17,000 houses in the two weeks in our city. He did—not—Enquirer.

A series of resolutions protesting against the presentation of the "Passion Play" are being circulated in New York City, and are obtaining many signatures.

While watching Bernhard in
"Frou Frou," the other night, I well known New York merchant was affected to tears, "Sadie's" dresses reminding him of the bills he would have to pay ere long.

The following is a list of engagements for the Grand opera house, for the remainder of this month:

Tuesday, 23, Den. Thompson in
"Joshua Whitcomb."

Monday, 29, Haverly's "Widow Bedott."

Tuesday, 30, Rice's "Evangeline" troupe.

December engagements:
Wednesday, 24, "The Strategists."
Thursday, 25, "All the Rage."
Friday, 26, Oliver Doud Byron.

Monday, 6, Milton Nobles.
Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday,
7, 8 and 9, "The Widow Glass."
Tuesday, 14, John A. Stevens.

Thursday, 16, "Pirates of Penzance."
Friday and Saturday, 17 and 18,
"The Fairy Grotto."

Tuesday, 22, Joe Jefferson.
Wednesday, 23, "Criterion" company.

Friday, 25, (Christmas) Mrs. Scott
Siddons.

Monday, 28, "Minnie Palmer."

Mr. A. W. Tyrrell, Merchants hotel, Shelby street, Detroit, Mich.,
writes: "I can cheerfully bear testimony to the wonderful healing qualities of the Great German remedy, St.
Jacob's Oil. I was afflicted with rheumatism for a long time, and I almost gave myself up as incurable. The use of the above preparation cured me completely, and I feel like a new man."

Nine out of Ten

"Nine men out of ten neither hold nor expect an office; yet the nine allow themselves to be used by the tenth so that he may hold an office." This is the whole secret of the persistence of non-political parties, in spite of their habitual subordination of public wealth to public plunder. To take down this spoils partyism is the highest aim of the best friends of honorable party government. To that end, the increase of independence of the individual in politics is the first and most efficient step. New
